SOUTH WEST REGIONAL PORTS ASSOCIATION

A Directory of Ports and Harbours in the South West Region

April 2024

The AIMS of the SOUTH WEST REGIONAL PORTS ASSOCIATION

- To provide a forum for ports and harbours within the South West Region to come together for regular discussions on topics affecting ports in the region.
- To provide self-help advice and expertise to members.
- To provide members with representation at all levels on all topics affecting port and harbour operations.
- To co-ordinate attention on issues including environment, leisure and tourism, road and rail links, contingency plans and future development of the South West.
- To support and encourage the British Ports Association.
- To improve trade using South West ports.
- To establish links between ports in the region and the many leisure users in our harbours including R.Y.A., R.N.S.A. diving, fishing, power boating, rowing, SUP, jet skiing and other organisations and bodies.
- To provide to the media and others, information and statistics on the ports industry.
- To support other bodies and organisations in ensuring the South West receives the necessary support and encouragement from Government and official bodies.
- To improve operations and co-operations between South West port members and the South West's Constabularies, County Fire Brigades, H.M. Customs, UK Border Force and HM Coastguard - vigorously supporting initiatives on crime, drug smuggling and safety.
- To ensure Harbour users receive the best attention and service.
- To maintain and ensure the environmental aspects of harbours in the South West whilst ensuring they remain part of the living and working traditions of the area.

Axmouth Harbour is leased from East Devon District Council (EDDC) by Axmouth Harbour Management Company Limited (AHMC). This is a non-profit organisation with representatives from the Axe Yacht Club and East Devon Fishermen's Association (with independent Chair & Secretary). AHMC sub-leases the western side (mooring basin) to AYC and the eastern side (fish quay), to EDFA.

The daily operation of the harbour rests with the AYC & EDFA.

ACTIVITIES:

Axmouth is a small tidal harbour at the mouth of the river Axe. The tidal streams run strongly within the narrow entrance, especially during springs or when the river is in spate. There is a shifting shingle bar at the entrance, which under adverse conditions, makes the entrance impassable.

Activities include inshore fishery, with associated fish quay, boat building yard, marine services, diving and angling. There is a Yacht Club for recreational water-sports. It maintains a mooring basin with 102 pontoon berths, a slipway & layup facilities. Limited berths are available for visiting craft (max 9.5m LOA, 1.0m draught)

PRINCIPAL OFFICERS	Captain Keith Badsey (Harbour Master & Pilot)

ACTIVITIES:

Bridgwater has been a statutory port since 1500 and a parliamentary Act of 1845 established its present boundaries and structure.

It became a recognised pilotage authority when the 1987 Pilotage Act came into effect. It has operated under the auspices of Sedgemoor DC since 1972.

The port covers twenty five square nautical miles of mainly inter-tidal sand and mud banks off the coast (Brean Down to Hinkley Point), and over fourteen nautical miles of tidal estuary and river (Parrett, Bruce and Axe), but with a comparatively low level of trade and low density leisure usage.

Although the council is responsible for conservancy of the harbour, all commercial wharves within the Port of Bridgwater are in private hands. Hanson Aggregates manages the aggregate import berth at Dunball Wharf. The other berths at Dunball and Bibby's Wharf are currently not in use for Port operations, except for occasional use of Dunball by the passenger vessel Balmoral.

The Nuclear Electric roll-on roll-off berth at Combwich plays an important role in the transport of heavy loads for Hinkley Point Power Station.

The port sees an Annual throughput of up to 80,000 tonnes of aggregates.

Gary Rawlings (Marine Superintendent)

ACTIVITIES:

The Port of Fowey, located in the south coast of Cornwall, is principally engaged in the export of china clay, although aggregate cargoes are increasing. Approximately 500,000 tonnes of cargo are handled annually.

Fowey Harbour Commissioners also operate tugs which provide out of port towage services in other ports, have a small dredger and have vessel repair facilities. There are a large number of leisure craft moorings (1,600) and facilities for visitors, (6,000 annual yacht visits) within the Harbour. They operate a boat park with dry storage for over 200 boats and a very popular engineering support business for leisure users.

Fowey is a popular cruise destination with an average of 8 - 10 visits per year.

Fowey is the Competent Harbour Authority for pilotage matters for the Ports of Fowey, Par and Charlestown.

Approximately thirty persons are employed in the port operation.

ACTIVITIES:

The Trustees are the Competent Harbour Authority and local lighthouse authority for the Gloucester Harbour. Main duties include the provision of a pilotage service, the siting, maintenance and improvement of aids to navigation and compliance with statutory environmental duties.

Pilotage is compulsory for larger vessels. Traffic within the Gloucester Harbour includes commercial vessels arriving at and departing from Sharpness Dock and aggregate dredging operations. Cargoes include cement, grain, fertiliser, forest products, stone, coal and scrap metal.

The docks and drydock at Sharpness are operated by private sector companies, although responsibility for operation of the lock gates and maintenance of water levels rests with the Canal and River Trust.

Leisure craft make up the remainder of the traffic, with considerable numbers of small craft gaining access to the inland waterway network via Sharpness Dock.

The Severn Bore also attracts considerable numbers of surfers and kayakers to the harbour area.

PRINCIPAL OFFICERS

Harbour Master: Capt. Harry Gregory
Chief Executive: Capt. Brian Murphy (from 1/7/23)
Port Manager: Mr Steve Moors
Harbour Engineer: Mr Phil Armstrong

ACTIVITIES:

Poole Harbour has commercial, fishing and recreational facilities. The Port of Poole handles Ro-Ro freight and passenger ferries from France and Spain and a fast ferry service to France and the Channel Islands. Various bulk cargoes are handled including aggregates, grain, fertiliser and products for the construction industry. There is also a rail link direct to the Port. The port handles Cruise turnarounds and visits currently accepting any vessel up to 210m LOA.

The port has Temporary Storage Approval combined with GVMS for Ro-Ro freight pre-lodgement or accompanied and unaccompanied freight. A Border Control Post and Public Trade Office are operated within the port estate 24/7.

Explosives can be handled in the Port with licence in place.

VTS and Pilotage Service is operated 24/7.

A harbour tug (18 tons bollard pull) is available (24hrs). Second (3rd party) tug can be arranged, subject to availability.

Bunkering is by road tanker, or bunker barge by arrangement. Small repairs and diving services are available locally. There are approximately 2,500 pontoon marina berths and 2,500 swinging moorings in the Harbour for recreational craft, club and commercial, as well as dedicated for visitors in the Poole Quay Boat Haven.

ACTIVITIES:
Commercial Vessels and Berths	Portland Port is a relatively busy commercial port and vessels visiting the port are varied. Global Marine has its UK port operations at Portland and the Royal Fleet Auxiliary are regular visitors. Cruise ships for both embarkation and disembarkation and port visits are becoming much more frequent. General cargoes, underwater surveys and long and short-term lay-ups cover the remainder.
	For vessels using alongside berths the maximum dimensions are LOA of up to 300 metres with depths of 11.6m (CD). For those requiring an inner harbour anchorage the constraints are depths 12.5m CD at ESC and weather conditions. The Inner Breakwater berth (PBI) has depths of 14m (CD)>
	The port has an explosive licence and 4 designated hazardous cargo anchorages.

ACTIVITIES:

The Port of Teignmouth is a hidden gem on the South Devon coast, managed by Teignmouth Harbour Commissioners (THC) providing pilotage, towage and dredging, as well as offering our services to other Harbour Authorities and local maritime companies. THC manages and maintains over 150 moorings for vessels up to 14m LOA and another 600 other moorings, maintained by the mooring holder for vessels up to 6.71m LOA. THC has two 20m visitors' pontoons which are standalone just off the back beach. The estuary has 1 yacht club, 2 sailing clubs and is home to one of the fastest growing rowing clubs in the UK, alongside a large number of other marine activities. An historic fishing and commercial port, Teignmouth boasts a busy fish quay for the local fishing fleet and a small walk ashore public pontoon which is subject to a 15-minute limit alongside.

Associated British Ports (ABP) owns and manages the commercial Quays which have a total of 419m of Quay side and have handled vessels up to 124m LOA and a maximum draught of 6m. ABP has a total port acreage of 7.5 acres and is capable of handling all types of cargoes in and out up to in excess of 650,000 tonnes per annum.

Truro on the south coast of Cornwall has a number of leisure moorings (c1000) located round the upper half of the Fal Estuary. Visitors' pontoons are also available at Woodbury, Malpas, Ruan Creek and Turnaware Bar as well as berthing facilities alongside the quays in Truro.

Commercial facilities include Lighterage Quay, Newham (1.5 km downstream of the city centre) which is 350m x 10m wide, this tidal berth offers a central inland location for Cornwall and the South West. Facilities on the quay include a 50 tonne weighbridge and fresh water.

The Port currently handles general bulk and bagged cargo, palletised goods and other 'one-off' cargoes i.e. boat hulls, steel coils etc. Stevedoring, ships agency, pilotage and cargo storage (both open and covered) are all available locally.

There are a number of deep water lay up berths for large vessels situated in the King Harry Ferry. These moorings will accommodate vessels up to 190m Loa.

The Port of Truro also has a native oyster fishery which is open from the 1 October to 31 March each year which only vessels fishing by traditional means may dredge.
